How to Read a River Feeding Patterns Proper Fly Presenting Mending Line Landing Fish Great Fishing Tips

On-Stream Instruction

WILSON'S fly shop is the best place to come for great selection, excellent service & friendly advice !

What is it?: After you have taken a beginner course and learned all of the basics, you need to learn how and when to use them !

Our On-Stream Instruction course takes place in a controlled setting on local rivers and we teach you what you need to do in order to enjoy your day and increase your chances of catching fish .

Location: Our course is taught at the Forks of the Credit in Caledon and on Wilmot Creek in Newcastle.

The Program: New fly fishers should always take a beginner course on a still water pond before heading out to a local river because those that do not learn the basics quickly get frustrated. Once comfortable with your casting and line control you need to be coached on how to survey a river, where fish will lay in a stream, how to present your fly on moving water, how to drift a fly, and how to mend a line properly. Our friendly and knowledgeable instructors teach you how to properly fly fish a river and because this 3 hr course is confined to a maximum of 2 students you get the individual attention necessary to learn.

Course Dates: Our On-Stream Instruction courses are typically held on Sundays in either morning or afternoon sessions from early May through the end of October. To give students the best opportunity to catch fish we sometimes vary the starting time of courses through the year so you should confirm your start time and location when you register. Depending on the availability of our team of instructors, if Sundays are not convenient we can also change the date & venue to better accommodate your schedule.

How to Book:
Call WILSON'S to book your course.
